TuneNet's Preferences has the option to set Audio Mode to "AHI User Mode" or "AHI Audio 0" (etc). I think I'm being thick, but which audio mode allows other programs to play sounds at the same time? (I think that's the main difference between those options, right?)

The Unit numbers are the ones that share between other sharing audio apps (ie ones that don't do low level access like AudioEvolution)

Use the User mode if you want to choose a second sound card or have a reason to pick a specific mode on the standard card.
