Another somewhat related question, when I cd to a directory containing the AutoInstall file, and I use run AutoInstall, the shell lets me know that the file is not executable. I also tried AutoInstall, for the SMTube installer file, via sh AutoInstall and results in the following error:

The right command is Execute. Or if the s bit of the Autoinstall file was set then it would run without the Execute command. Run command runs a program/command in background (not blocking the Shell). Sh is "Linux/Unix" shell which is different to Amiga's Shell/CLI and doesn't understand its syntax.

Anyway the AutoInstall files are for the AmiUpdate utility.
