Probably someone see that i uploaded hollywood plugins to recent ones, and upload all that stuff which on os4depot is older.

That from one side ok (so all will be latest one from place where everyone grab stuff), but then, why he put my email when upload ?

Have all stuff up2date on os4depot is good, and what that one who upload over my email doing good stuff for users, but put my email when it wasn't me kind of suck :)

Probably only good way, its just create database with users/passwords, so no anynymouses can comment and/or upload stuff. And then it will be visibly who upload and what.
