

Subject: : AmigaOS4

Topic: : Keep window in front of parent

Re: Keep window in front of parent

Author: : broadblues

Date: : 2019/5/24 15:32:58

URL:

@mritter0

There a commodity called DepthToFront that gets you around this, when running right clicking on the depth gadget of any window gives drop down list of windows, so windows don;t get lost in the way you describe.

If your requester was linked to your WEx window, you get the opposite problem of the WEx window coming forward with it and covering up some other window you want to look at, swings and round abouts.