and of course it's always a little disconcerting to have to rely on arbitrary bits of filenames such as extensions - we never had to worry about that in AmigaOS (well, originally, at least ).

It would be helpful to be able to choose the filetype from a menu for those files with unexpected or no extension.

Python or perl scripts often do not end in .py or .pl if they are being treated as applications for example. Similarly with ARexx i guess.
