I don't know the inner workings of sgit, so i may be completely off tzhe track here, but would it be possible to make sgit take use of ExtMem?

Especially
sgit fetch eats away lots of memory which could(?) be moved to ExtMem.

Again, maybe sgit doesn't do anything and the memory is handled by the OS, i don't know, just something i stubled over today (updating a big project after some month in hiatus).
