I suppose you didn't know the same person who did SFS and SFS2 also invented JXFS to work around all the problems with SFS et al.

No I didn't, and it's great to hear that his experience with SFS has been put to good use.

But that doesn't change any of what I said, and which I would still like an answer to... (hint: I'm looking for facts, not opinions.)

Well, I'm using JXFS on my largest partition now and after copying everything back I noticed an error in my single most important directory

Sadly it seems you have just proven my point about not trusting young filing systems. 😞
