Better speed,

How much better? AmiPDF is not to slow for me except when displaying 'PDF printed webpages' generated by Google Chrome on my linux box.

Can you provide a measured benchmark?

10% would be hardly worth it 100% on the other hand....

better usability,

That's probably going to be a matter of opinion.

better stability

AmiPDF rarely crashes for me, others mileage may vary.

The important question seems not to have been asked.

Better Compatabilty

Is it more compatable with the later / latest PDF speicificatins? This is where I find issues with AmiPDF. it doesn't always recognise certain modern featur, , throwing out lists of apparent errors, although it often ends up displaying a readbable document, these slow things down somewhat.

What 'core' is VPDF based on ? And how modern is that core?
