Timberwolf is too slow, bloated

That's not a fair criticism, since it is not intended to be fast in it's current state (they wanted to get it stable before making it fast).

Still, MUI-OWB/Odyssey is the best browser currently available (not future promises). I wonder why Kas1e can't simply apply "OS4 patches" to more recent versions of Odyssey source code, since Fab seems to think this should be easy.

I do realise this ChrisH, but the beta (alpha?) has been out for years now with hardly any updates really, when was the last one? Over a year ago? Even if it ever does get finished, I still can't imagine it'd run very well on most OS4 platforms, even on Windows Firefox is pretty heavy on the system. The UI is also really Linux-like, it's an alien app, and it shows. MUI-OWB is an Amiga program though, it's like a modern version of IBrowse.

As I mentioned, I think the time has passed anyway, Firefox is really on its way out now. It would have been cool if it was released 5 years ago, but the rest of the world is moving to Webkit, luckily we already have a very decent webkit browser.
