which cpu are you using? did you use the -j switch when compiling?

Of course all with -jX, it speed up things a little , but as i build it on cygwin on notebook which i just buy for some simple text work that just tells and speed pretty sucky. I thinking about build it on some of my remote linux servs, but repeat all the same steps now which i do in last days but on another serv pretty boring, so better just wait a day :)
