That all welknown since years that warp3d is depricated.

As for radeonhd , probably there was some problem to solve which need to loose some time, and seems decision was made to spend that time on the gallium instead and not loose time on w3d.

Probably there was hope that it can be done indeed fast and all will be fine, then realizing that not everything that easy-peasy -> on hold -> die in rest :)

Some may ask, why there was news about if it not finished ? But then, the same ppls will ask, why there is no news and roadmaps :)
