Perhaps better suited to its own thread, but...

While looking for a web reference to amateur vs professional (I always recall the basic difference defined as "pay")...

I stumbled upon a term I had not heard before:

Amateur professionalism

Quote:

"people pursuing amateur activities to professional standards"

I find that an interesting concept.

Here's a different spin on amateur vs professional as well.

Quote:

It doesn't matter what you are trying to become better at, if you only do the work when you're motivated, then you'll never be consistent enough to become a professional.
