I think i wrote that feature request already on another thread, can't find it now

I'd like to have the bookmarks window incorporated into the main window...or at least sticky to the main window, so that when i move it it moves accordingly.

I also like to be able to decide on which side (left or right) the bookmark window sticks

And adding to that i'd like an option to open links in the same window that is already open and most of all open a new tab instead of a new window i think you already said that you need to determine the window that is open to make that happen.

I'd say just take the main, the first window.

I'm one of that persons, that never have a second browser window open, i work with tabs 😊

Thanks a lot
