I'm still getting the problem with Multiviewer where it freezes up the entire system randomly when opening text files (all other datatypes are OK). However it never does it consistently enough for me to be able to get a serial debug log. Consequently, I was getting so fed up of rebooting and having to re-open everything that I went back to Multiview.

It would be great if this could be fixed (although I suspect it depends on me being able to get a crashlog, which doesn't look likely to happen any time soon)
