I just started working on an AmigaOS surface backend for cairo 1.14.10.

It will be rather simplistic to begin with, with more advanced h/w acceleration being added later (through CompositeTags() for instance).

Interestingly enough the cairo configure script seems to know the development state of my backend:

Quote:

- The amigaos surface backend feature is still under active development and
- is included in this release only as a preview. It does NOT fully work yet
- and incompatible changes may yet be made to amigaos surface backend
- specific API.
