Isn,'t format supposed to detect bad sectors,and to hide them later on?

I bought a new hd for my Sam460ex partitioned it and tried to install OS4.1FE, in factt because of troubles described below i created a number of different sys partitions in which i tried to install the system

I used quick format first, and got troubles either during install (hd errors) or if installed with even basic OS programs crashing or behaving strangely

I then used format hoping to get better results, but i still get those hd errors while installing OS4
