Took a little more work but I figured it out. Turns out you don't need to set the vendor and device strings in the env vars. What was happening is RoadShow was onlining the interface but it was not detecting the Mac Address correctly. I plugged my F5D5050 to my Linux machine, got the MAC, then programmed that in to the interface file by hand. After that it worked!

I could tell you what system I am using to post this but... :)
