Fantastic! And thanks for figuring that out. I, personally, didn't have quite enough interest or time to push through that. I'm glad someone did.

I'll update my original post shortly, once I hear about any other cumulative error corrections anyone comes up with for both Cygwin and Uwin.

I confirmed what you did: the PATH setting is what screwed things up on Uwin. The PC I'm using to test all this out still can't download the Windows Creators Update which is a prerequisite (updated/later Ubuntu version) to making the UWin work.
