Like i wrote in the ScummVM bug report NUMLOCK has to be set to OFF to make the three keypad keys work et al, NUMLOCK set to ON makes all numpad keys silent/non reacting.

This alone is fundamentally wrong imo as NUMLOCK ON only should trigger those keys in the first place (as also written in the ScummVM bug report it does exactly that in v1.9.0 - without that PR in place)

At least that is how it works on the other platforms i tried (Windows, Linux)

Maybe you could compile a SDL2 test case for me to try and see where the error happens?

That way i could rule out SD2 or ScummVM.
