Bad luck then, and all rather vague. I wouldn't wonder if 2.20 / 2.21 starts to become unstable too if you run everything often enough 😞

Anyway, there's not much stuff that had been done that could provoke a freeze. Pretty much the only thing that is theoretically capable of causing this is the replacement of the deprecated alloc und iorequest functions. The first had been disabled long ago, the other I have reverted back to old style functions right now:

I'm gone now, for the weekend at least 😊
