Tried <http://www.goldencode.de/tmp/mgldxt.zip> , and it all the same in terms of rendering and stability as S2TC was. Just the library size smaller on about 500-600kb with dxt.

I do test the same list as i test with last mgl, so far all the same, run them also one after another, etc.

So its good to keep imho and probabaly worth of made a release with what we have now. Anything else can keep for later, or it all will be forever song called "i found another bug, Daniel should fix it" :)

So if you will bump the revision/date and prebuild everything, i can then take ppc ones, put all nicely in archive, and upload there so all can tests if all is fine, and then os4depot and forget about for a while :))
