

Subject: : AmigaOS4

Topic: : The MiniGL thread

Re: The MiniGL thread

Author: : Daytona675x

Date: : 2019/3/29 19:19:04

URL:

@Raziel

in this universe it is exactly 100% absolutely totally for sure and without any possible fraction of a theoretical doubt impossible that this change

- has any impact on stability, neither positive nor negative
- has any impact on performance, neither positive nor negative
- and in both cases the value of the constant, be it 1.0f or 0.5f, cannot produce any other possible difference than a tiny difference in the filtered output at the cube's problematic edges, no more no less

Something else must be broken on your end. It can not possibly have anything to do with this change.