

Subject: : AmigaOS4

Topic: : Is Forbid() needed for SetMethod()?

Re: Is Forbid() needed for SetMethod()?

Author: : salass00

Date: : 2019/4/9 20:51:58

URL:

@LiveForIt

The discussion was about installing a patch and not removal of one (as was my example code).

You are right though that removing an installed patch causes some problems in that after calling IExec->SetMethod() to restore the old function it is impossible to be 100% sure that there is not a program still using the patch function or just about to call it.

About the best you can do is add a large delay after and hope that it's enough.