Apologies if this has already been mentioned, but I've just received the Enhancer Special Edition package, and have just set about installing it on a fairly clean 4.1FE Update 1 installation. The card included with the software with installation instructions says the first thing I should do is open the Read_Me_First drawer and the relevant file inside there. However, that can't be opened because the necessary class is missing... because I haven't installed Enhancer yet.

The same applies if I go directly to the readme files in the installation drawer - they are set to use Multiviewer:Multiviewer, which I haven't yet installed...

I'm sure it's a simple mistake from people testing it having the classes installed already from earlier versions, but it might make sense to test on a clean installation first.
