Does the server have a short timeout if a connection is idle?

Downloads seem to fail for me if I take too long to choose the drawer to download to. The download may complete the second time because the file requester is already in the right drawer, so I click the save button much faster.

Other browsers will continue the download even while you're choosing where to save it, but Odyssey seems to pause while you're choosing the drawer. So, maybe the server gives up too fast.
