Do not know how far you come with your Diablo port, but some one with name "artur" did the port to vampire(68k), so all byteswapping and endian-related work probabaly or already done, or almost done.

Code are open, changes too, there is:

I can of coure build os4 version myself from it, if it ready-enough, and all endian-related work done, but probabaly if you in interst to finish your first project, it will be fair that you will do so. But if you didn't want to spend much time on it anymore, i can port what arthur do.
