It would be a good idea, and also very useful.

Creating a website dedicated to this project of yours is probably the best choice in my humble opinion.

Some time ago I wanted to dedicate a site only to the amigaos platform.

But unfortunately I have many personal things to solve.

It would be interesting to be able to upload videos only for amigaos with acceptable compression support for today's amigaos browser standards and related "mplayer-video"

And for some time I've been looking for video compression that is compatible with winuae in this case, because I don't own a real machine.

Currently I do not know the minimum standard of resolution for a real machine for amigaOS 4.1

720p is the minimum standard with which to watch a video with a low-end machine for amigaOS 4.1?

Did I misunderstand your question?

Thanks for all your answers.
