With github it will take more time for me, so i unstead pack the fixed sources up (all of them) , and upload it there:

So just unpack and type "make" to have a binary. That of course in case if you install that extremsync.lha and camd.lha dev sdks.

I tested it a bit more, and in general, probably fixing those 4 bugs i mention will make it "ok".

Based on your screenshot, it looks like the toolbar buttons at the bottom of the window are broken too.

Ah, is that probably because i just run only pure binary from "RAM:", without any data files :) Maybe that the reason of most of bugs i have report before, will check now.
