With github it will take more time for me

It shouldn't and using a git repo would make it simpler to see the modifications IMHO.

- 1) fork the original repo
- 2) git clone your fork
- 3) modify the code
- 4) git status; git diff
- 5) git add what you want; git commit
- 6) git push
- 7) create pull request against original repo
- 8) profit ?!
