Question : should we have by default in prefs/media all options being set to ON, instead as it now, when only fastseeking and mp4 is enabled ?

Those options when off, mean that when you click on those formats, they didn't plays in browser but bring you save-as requester to download it instead. But imho, the other way around expected to be default : everything enabled, and if one wish, he disable it.

So question, should i just enable them all by default ?
