Thanks for the work and the response.

I just did some experimenting and it is just as you say. Here is a summary.

1. The preferences is just for setting up the menu selections and settign a default. It has no effect on the actual spoofing setting/string. It must be set from the spoofing menu.
2. The default Setting in the menu does one of two things depening on the OWB_USER_AGENT setting. If it's doesn't exist then "Default Setting" uses the default as set in preferences. If it does exist then "Default Settings" uses the OWB_USER_AGENT value for spoofing.

Not very intuitave but no different from the way is used to work before so Ok.

Very nice of you to give the effort. Thanks again.
