I have a request too, continuing from Niels' comment.

Would it be possible to add the site to URL settings you are currently on?

In

Windows/URL Settings...

and then

Add

should add the current site or

add a new button which explicitly says

Add current

I get it that the latter would be more intrusive and more work.

Yes, i know i can "simply" c&p the site address, but that's the easy way out.

@nbache

Thanks for the heads up.

URL settings was just what i was looking for after struggling with some site who refused to open an ASL requester on uploading files.

Setting the spoof to "Odyssey browser" fixes it strangely.
