Will see if it could be changed to such mode/behaviour.

Just firstly we need to discuss it with everyone, so everyone agree before doing any changes :)

I know you wan't that ex. I select Firefox3.6 as default in prefs spoof as, and then on menu Firefox3.6 shows selected/marked.

Yeah, if we set "default" in the preferences of spoofing, then, that default can't be "not shown in menu" , but automatically always shown in menu.

Also, if we set in "spoof as" anything else, then, it also set "default" in the preference taking from menu, and keep it all like this till we restart (so back to saved default"), or press save sometime so it will remember our default.

Point is that we reflect default be it from prefs, or be it from spoof as.

And at then end of the spoof as list in menu, we change "default" on the "environment as default". So those who set environment for, will have it default only when it set.

That latest part need to discuss a bit more to find cleaner and clever way.
