Ok, no problem, but I not sure if some change in MENU (javascript, images, spoof as,...) should change PREFS (window options), if it's that what you mean.

I agree with this. Changing the spoofing menu should not change preferences. The only relationship I would suggest is that the default selection in preferences should select that item in the menu when first started.

If you want changes for given sites to stick then it's done through the URL Settings... menu.

If you want to change the default you do it through preferences.
