As i say you should install beta7 to a fresh new directory, and then conf by conf update it if you wish from old install. In new one not only new pixman library come, but also useragent.prefs, which contain all the old spoofing string with the same names as before, and they looks the same in menu.

Aha, I did install it in a new dir, but then copied my whole conf dir from the old installation over (after backing up the new conf, of course). My mistake.

I'll try it the other way, thanks for the reminder.

Best regards,

Niels
