how should software development be affected by covid?

You are organized by electronic media and internet because the devs are not at one place

Lack of OS development (or Enhancer) cannot excuse with covid. Covid affected supply of electronic parts at beginning of year but I do not think that this is still the case.

Of course it just an excuse. Whole world live with that Covid for year or more already, and things going on everywhere, with some impact. But the less affected ppls is one who work over computer making software. So i also can't understand wtf.

As for Olaf, mufa say it allright : he involved in os4 pretty much. There were even few beta of roadshow for os4 lately (year ago if i remember right), but that again going to nowhere and nothing released. Olaf also involved to keep working "beta" released for us beta-testers, keeping working email notification and stuff. I.e. he involved quite a lot.
