

Subject: : AmigaOS4

Topic: : Company<->User communication...Is it still a thing today?

Re: Company<->User communication...Is it still a thing today?

Author: : amigakit

Date: : 2020/10/25 11:00:24

URL:

@kas1e

Quote:

But in the case of AEON, how many sites there? 10? AEON one, amispehere, amistore, amiwhatelse, for every program different sub-site with a different name. Personally, I lost long ago what and where I register and what my accounts for and is :)

I am sorry, this is sensationalist and inaccurate. Your post will cause confusion by writing this.

There is one login system for A-EON's downloads: it is AmiSphere. The very same login works with AmiStore, A-EON, AmiSphere.com and the Updater tool. All of them use the AmiSphere Server where the files are stored. So as a user you just need to remember your AmiSphere username and password.

@TearsOfMe

The vast majority of active OS4 users now login to AmiSphere regularly and have an account so it is no problem so login to download software. Registration can mean that the <http://wiki.amiga.org/index.php?title=Updater> tool can keep user's hard drive up to date with the latest classes as we release them.