Hi guys,

Thanks for the positive feedback and suggestions! :) Definitely agree with having non-free titles to play as well.

Have started working on the project now and have a page up and running here.

Think this will develop over time. Most important is to get everything up and running and then we can add additional features, better graphics, awards etc.

Right now I have a page ready with very basic high-score listings for two games, some information about the leaderboards and a header logo I made. Later on we should have Game of the Month competitions and more. That will be fun. :)

Thanks again for the positive comments. I will make a separate thread here where people can submit their scores for inclusion in the highscore tables. We should later on make a thread about Game of the Month too.

PS: The page is now up and running in basic form here:
