Unfortunately nothing. In "dynamic" case there is this crash but my hypothesis seemed wrong, context was not deleted based on the serial log. I guess I have to try it myself. Just wondering how to get the dynamic linking working as there used to be some issues earlier. And yeah, I agree with your analysis about DSI, looked like a classical zero page hit.

In "static" case I cannot see any crash. Do you have more logs? This would be probably easier to test. And earlier when I built ScummVM statically there was no this crash issue after `_glContext` workaround, so I wonder why it popped up.
