Mattew will answer you that every day hundreds of users use updater and have no problems. Though he didn't know for a fact that most users when meeting a problem just give a shit to report it and losing their time to even talking about it. In such a small user base, there needs to be happy that someone reports bugs.

Every report from users should be taken for granted and inspected. But as Mattew has no time for everything, and he didn't think it is necessary to hire someone who will deal with those things, we have what we have.

For example, for me, today Updater just freezes when I scroll via scrollbar right after it connected and downloads the list. It can be a bug in aeons list browser class, or in updater itself, but I sure will not spend time on the proper finding of roots of the issue, as I know the long road: firstly will be explained that it only me have such bug, then silence, then ignore, and so on :)
