Yes, it can be probably something about system settings as well, but a crash is clear in listviewer.gadget, I mean stack trace is of no way misleading, but 100% pointing out on listviewer.gadget. And exactly in myDraw_Column().

And this is random. It can happen one time, and other times not. And as our system different, it can be just a different memory layout and you just lucky to not crash.

@Enhancer_devs

Can anybody build a debug version of listviewer.gadget, so we can see a line where it crashes ?
