No these are bugs I have seen too in the past.

it sounds like in your case it hasn't removed the disabling of the window after completeing the download.

Perhaps it is still waiting for a sub thread. This might be why you can't restart it, as it hasn't really quit. A tool like ranger would tell you if it's still there in the background.

Ironically the fact you could close the window whilst it's greyed out and nominally disabled is probably also a bug!

I can exactly reproduce your bug in test I just did. I'll raise a mantis about it.
