Then if we mean VAT is a customs fee in my country, then currently in Russia we have no needs to pay anything if the thing is up to 200E and/or less than 31kilogram. But if more, then we pay 15% of the remaining sum. So in my case, it will be $620-200 = 420$, and 15% from 420 is 63 EURO. And the final price from Acube till my flat will be 700EURO for the bundle and a bit of those additional things + I think there will be needs to pay additional 10-20Euro so someone at custom will sort out all the "documents" work for me as well without needs to spend time on, but that optional, of course.

It also can be a bit cheaper if pay not from PayPal (i do from Paypal, and they are known by their fees), it didn't take that memory and sil card (i take them as do not want to search for anything more than just a case and gfx card with HDD). So can probably be around 600 in end as well if pure bundle.

But I fear all the boards already sold out or reserved, demand as expected higher than just some little batch of new boards produced.
