

Subject: : AmigaOS4

Topic: : Is there a fine line of working for free in Amiga world?

Re: Is there a fine line of working for free in Amiga world?

Author: : kas1e

Date: : 2021/5/8 16:38:12

URL:

@Kamelito

Quote:

If you struggle you better put your talent where you can earn more money because life is short.

I not sure George means anything of that low-level. He does not mean he seeking money from his hobby and he probably has enough from his job. He means that should he help Hyperion or AEON when they do things he didn't like or not. Like, we all know how Ben does the business. Or, that Mattew overwrites system components broken functionality. Of course, that kind of kills motivation to help on the level one can.

@George

I know what you mean: why you should help Hyperion while there is Ben owner, and why you should help Mattew when he overwrites system components. Yeah, quite logical. But then, it means that you still can report bugs (without spending too much time on them) and test some things, but the majority of your hobby/free time put on your own projects where is no one dictates you what and how to do :)