I bet most of that is going to pay of financial depth, how many years have they fighting in legal system? now? No doubt has it cost a lot of money, a lot this should have been solved a long time ago, if people were not stubborn assholes. Its disappointing but at end of day, the developers and beta testers who are willing to put time and energy into developing for Hyperion know things are. I hope a little bit of money is set aside on supporting essentials (driver development).
