The OS4 community is broken beyond repair imho

I'm sorry you feel this way 😞 The current OS4 situation is difficult - the worst I remember (and I've been on the bandwagon since 2009) - so it would be surprising if it didn't have any impact on the community. The OS4 users have always been a very patient and positive-minded crowd, but the recent events have apparently been too much to handle, and you see frustration getting vented out from time to time.

But let's remember that the OS4 community is the victim, not the culprit of the situation. The community is bitter and divided because of the people who have messed up the OS situation and put the future - even the very existence - of our platform in jeopardy.

That being said, I believe the situation will get resolved soon enough. You can't hang about in courts forever.
