But I am not talking to create one more bounty website.

Which of course would be absolutely unnecessary if we had one. But we have not...

For example, aminet.net has the donation information at their site, so how we can let the users know about it?

Don't you think that the administrators of the Aminet would promote their request for financial support a little bit more prominently if it was that necessary..?

Otherwise in my opinion for your idea a new, corresponding thread would be fine, wouldn't be?
