This post done using IBrowse 2.5.5 ...

I still have Timberwolf 4.0.1 (Release Candidate 3) on my MicroA1 for nostalgia. I rarely use it, because it is very annoying.

Today, I used Timberwolf several times to access Amiga websites, Amiga.org, Amigaworld.net and Amigans.net.

Amiga.org seems to work ok most of the time.

Amigaworld.net ...

I get secure connection failed messages, saying
www.amigaworld.net:443 uses an invalid security certificate.

But eventually, it settles down.

Amigans.net ...

The connection was interrupted message.

The connection to www.amigans.net was interrupted while the page was loading.

When quitting Timberwolf, I usually get a DSI error and a message saying that the parent process croaked before it closed the associated child processes.

Anyways, I have other web browsers that I use more often.
