I would be soooooo grateful if you could catch a serial debug log of those sporadic splash screen lock ups and post them here.

I also get them (randomly and seldom) and for me it's **always** a machine exception coming from my radeonhd (using an x1000 here).

Hans told me there is nothing he can do, once the gfx card is locked and the machine exception happens it's over and only a cold reboot helps.

He also told be it only happens with warm reboots, but that is not true, I get it with warm and cold reboots, but only sporadically.

I rather think it might be missing an init somewhere maybe, because why does it work one time, but not the other?

Anyway, if it's the same exception we might be able to corner some weird bug still present in the driver (when happening on two different hardwares, that is)
