was wondering if it is possible in IBrowse to add the new bookmarks to the end, rather than the beginning of the bookmarks list when using 'Bookmarks/add bookmark'.

I have thousands of bookmarks nested in rather deep sub-directories and use two methods to keep them straight.

(1) I use "bookmarks/add bookmarks"

(2) Highlight the exact place in the list I wish the bookmark to appear

(3) Then when I add the bookmark, it's inserted into my filing system exactly where I want it

(4) The ability to drag around entire bookmark sub-directories and their contents also helps in re-organizing the bookmarks. Individual entries (as opposed to entire groups/sub-directories) can be re-organized in the same fashion.

This applies to your question in the sense that filing into logical categories "as you go" makes for less work later.
